

The Royal College of Pathologists

Celebrating 50 years 1962–2012

What's involved ... in being Vice-Chair on the Trainees Advisory Committee

Responsibilities of the Vice Chair:

1. To support activities of the Chair where agreed
2. To chair meetings of the Trainees Advisory Committee if the Chair is absent
3. To attend the Examinations Committee meeting and communicate trainee issues
4. To deputise at meetings that the Chair is unable to attend if necessary e.g. Council of The Royal College of Pathologists.
5. To help ensure that the terms of reference, aims and objectives of the Trainees Advisory Committee are adhered to and achieved.
6. To help ensure that the members of the Trainees Advisory Committee undertake and share the activities necessary to further the role of the committee.
7. To support communication between the College and the trainees including a quarterly document 'Trainees' Notes' for publication in the College Bulletin

Emma Johnson, Vice Chair TAC

June 2012

